

THEY STILL DRAW PICTURES:

CHILDREN'S ART FROM THE SPANISH CIVIL WAR

A traveling exhibit of historic children's drawings and war-time photographs by Robert Capa from the era of the Spanish Civil War of 1936-39.

Opening Reception
Wednesday, March 19
5:30 p.m.
All Welcome • Refreshments

Based on the exhibit, "They Still Draw Pictures: Children's Art in Wartime," curated by Anthony L. Geist and Peter N. Carroll for the Abraham Lincoln Brigade Archives, Inc., of New York. The original Spanish Civil War materials are owned by the Avery Library of Columbia University and the Abraham Lincoln Brigade Archives.

The exhibition at Drew was made possible by
The Office of the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts,
The Spanish Department, The European Studies Program, and The University Library.
Exhibit Liaison: Professor Mónica Cantero

DREW UNIVERSITY LIBRARY • MARCH 19-MAY 30, 2008